Nevada's hotels are an important segment of the state's economy. Nearly 30-percent of all jobs in the state are directly or indirectly related to the lodging industry, with hotels, motels, resorts, or lodges generating over $3 billion in tax revenue for state and local governments. Our industry reaches far beyond just providing our guests with comfortable rooms or convenient meeting spaces—we are interlinked with many other industries, such as transportation, restaurants, agriculture, manufacturing, and recreation, supporting approximately $70 billion in total sales throughout the state.
